

Dr Dianne Gardener is an Associate Professor in work psychology in the Joint Centre for Disaster Research, in the School of Psychology at Massey University. She is a registered psychologist and her research and teaching focus on psychological wellbeing and healthy work. She has researched a range of issues related to wellbeing and the relationship between physical and psychological health.